ACTA PHYSIOLOGICA RISING STAR AWARD

NOMINATION FORM

The Acta Physiologica Rising Star Award is granted to a young physiologist who has substantially contributed to the advancement of their field through ground-breaking research. The successful candidate will have developed a progressive, world-class research profile as an independent investigator, demonstrated by an excellent record of scientific dissemination. Presented at the Annual Meeting of the Federation of European Physiological Societies (FEPS), the prize includes an endowment of €1500. The awardee will present a summary lecture of their work at the Annual Meeting, and author an accompanying review article in Acta Physiologica. For the 2019 Award, nominations are open to candidates under the age of 40 as of December 31st 2019, with allowances made for documented career breaks, who have been employed at a European academic institution in the past 2 years. The deadline for nominations is April 30th 2019. A full CV including publication list should accompany this nomination form.

NOMINEE'S CONTACT INFORMATION

Name:	Date of birth:
Institution:
Address:
Email address:	Phone number:

NOMINATED BY

Name:
Institution:
Relationship to nominee (self-nominations not valid):

DESCRIPTION OF NOMINEE'S SCIENTIFIC CONTRIBUTION

PLEASE LIST 3 KEY PUBLICATIONS AUTHORED BY THE NOMINEE

1.
2.
3.

SIGNATURE OF NOMINATOR: DATE:

PLEASE FORWARD A SCANNED VERSION OF THIS NOMINATION FORM BY EMAIL TO:
PROFESSOR WILLIAM (BILL) LOUCH, FEPS TREASURER, W.E.LOUCH@MEDISIN.UIO.NO